HISTORICAL.

When the Hospital was first opened for the reception of patients in September 1866, all the major business was conducted by the Board. Mr. George Stacey Gibson was elected chairman and he continued to hold office until his death in 1883. As there was no house committee, a great deal of the domestic business, such as the supervision of repairs and painting, and the contracting for provisions, was done by the House Visitors, who were elected at the monthly meetings.

The medical staff consisted of Mr. Alfred Jones, Mr. Henry Stear, and Mr. F. F. Walsh, and they were soon joined by Mr. Edward Harley. Mr. Stear served the Hospital for 50 years, not only as medical officer, but also as a member, and in his later years as Chairman, of the Board.

The nursing of the patients was in the hands of the matron and one nurse, and there were also a dispenser and a porter. The first dispenser did not stay long, and in August 1867 Mr. John Gilling was appointed; in the following year he undertook some of the secretarial duties, and when he retired in 1910 it was noted that "he had been dispenser for 43 years and had kept the minutes of the Board for 42 years."

As the number of patients increased it was natural that more help should be needed, and in November 1867 it was recorded that "in consequence of the amount expended in extra labour the Board think it would be desirable to engage the services of some person permanently, to scrub, wash, and assist in nursing." And in June 1868 "the Committee are of opinion that another nurse is required." But before this could be acted upon, other changes took place. In November the Matron resigned, and the nurse and the porter received notice to leave. This led to the appointment as Matron of Mrs. Winter, who was selected "from many applicants." At the same time it was decided to engage two new nurses, and that the Ladies' Committee should engage a cook and a housemaid.

As the minutes for November 19th, 1868 say "Resolved that no new officers come into the house until the old ones are cleared out," we may conclude that there had been some unpleasantness, but about the nature of this the minute book is discreetly silent. However, it would seem that the Board were as fortunate in their choice of the second Matron as they had been in selecting their second dispenser, for Mrs. Winter remained in charge of the nursing and domestic staff for 22 years, and only resigned in August 1890 when failing health compelled her to retire.

Troubles still occurred apparently, for in September 1869 it was "resolved that Nurse ——— be discharged for various irregularities in carrying out the instructions of the medical men." It is of interest to mention that the next nurse was appointed at a salary of £25, 'four years later 12/- per quarter was added in lieu of beer) and that the cook and housemaid in December 1868 commenced at salaries of £13 and £10 respectively.

It was customary for many years to admit "Fever patients" to the Hospital. Probably these were chiefly cases of Typhoid for there is a minute of February 4th, 1868 "That no case of Scarlet Fever be admitted to the Hospital." Fortunately an extra nurse was usually brought in to attend to these patients.

Improvements were soon under consideration; during the last three months of 1869 a new Dead-house, a Summer Arbour, and a Laundry were being discussed. "Mrs. Gibson would be at the expense of putting up a summer-arbour," and Messrs. Bell & Son received instructions in June 1870 to commence a "new wing" which included the laundry.

Soon the board was constrained to tighten up the rules, for in February 1871 we learn that "In consequence of largely increased numbers in the Hospital and of its financial position during the last two years, it is considered desirable that the regulations should in future be adhered to both as regards admission of incurable and irremediable cases and the continuance of patients beyond a reasonable length of time."

Evidently the growing demand for accommodation and the appearance of a debit balance had proved that the Hospital was a success!

70th Report of the Board of Management.

THE outstanding event of the year 1935 has been the realization of a long-deferred hope by the completion of the new children's ward. Having been made possible by the efforts of Captain and Mrs. Montagu during the previous year, the scheme was helped on by their further kindness in October this year when a most interesting exhibition of Art and Antiques, organised by Mrs. Montagu and Mrs. Robertson with a party of helpers, was the means of raising £167 towards the fund.

At the same time a public appeal was made by Mr. William Adams and a special committee, with the result that £766 8s. 4d. was raised in time to permit the new ward to be opened free from debt.

It is difficult to express adequately our gratitude to Mrs. Montagu and Mrs. Robertson and their band of workers, and to Mr. Adams and the appeal committee, for the highly satisfactory result of their endeavours.

The cost of equipment was practically covered by a generous gift of £250 from the Essex Insurance Committee, to whom grateful acknowledgement has been sent.

The opening of the new block on November 9th was an event of unusual interest not only to those immediately concerned, but to the whole district. The ward was declared open by Miss Gracie Fields; she was accompanied by Miss Victoria Hopper and Mr. Basil Dean. Miss Fields received an enthusiastic welcome, and after inspecting the Hospital and speaking to many of the patients, she delighted the large gathering by singing one of her most popular songs from the balcony. It was subsequently announced that the Hospital was to be "adopted" by Miss Victoria Hopper.

We would like to add a word of thanks to the architect, Mr. E. M. Allan-Hallett, and to the builders, under Mr. A. H. Perry, for their patience and consideration in meeting the wishes of the committee, and for the satisfactory way in which the work was carried out.

To Lady Braybrooke and the members of the Linen League we are indebted for blankets and materials for the children's ward.

Lady Foot-Mitchell, by her very handsome gift of a B.T.H. Refrigerator, has supplied a long-felt need in the catering department, and we wish to record our appreciation of her generosity.

The Contributory Scheme shews an increased membership in nearly every part of the district, with a corresponding increase in receipts. During the year a total sum of £2002 2s. 5d. has been paid into the revenue of the Hospital. For this valuable help our thanks are due to all the workers of the Scheme, and in particular to Mr. F. J. Pitstow, the President, and Mr. A. J. O. Cook, the Honorary Secretary.

We appreciate the assistance given by Women's Institutes all over the district, by the Debden Women's Social Club, the Girl Guides, and by Churches and Sunday Schools, the Bridge End Gardening Centre has sent gifts of garden produce and plants; to them and to all our friends who have helped with similar gifts we wish to express our thanks and to ask for a continuation of their kindness.

Contributions to the Funds of the Hospital from the Saffron Walden Training College, the Saffron Walden Sportsmen's Service and the Halstead Charity Cup, have been welcomed; and as in previous years, we have benefitted by the opening of Broom Wood in the Daffodil season.

The Exhibition in October was opened by Miss Nancy Winter, who as Nurse and Matron, served the Hospital faithfully for seven years, from 1884 to 1891. By her death since the close of the year the Hospital loses a real friend, whose devotion to her patients was almost equalled by their great affection for her.

To the members of the Medical Staff we offer our sincere thanks for their continued services.

To the Matron, and to all the Nursing Staff we also wish to express our grateful appreciation.

In April Miss Smeeton was succeeded in the post of Matron by Miss F. L. R. Stevens, who came to us from Charing Cross Hospital, where she had held the post of Sister Tutor. In this capacity and as an examiner for the General Nursing Council Miss Stevens is well fitted to maintain a high standard of nursing.

To meet the increased demands made by the additional ward and the growing work in the X-Ray department the staff has been increased by a staff nurse and a probationer.

Two nurses have passed the 1st State Examination and have gone to Oxford for further training. Since the close of the year another probationer has passed the 1st examination, and one of our nurses has completed her training at Oxford and has taken her final State Certificate.

THE YEAR'S WORK.

The growth of the work of the Hospital which was shewn in our last report still continues. During the past year 571 in-patients were treated. Of these, 108 were medical cases, including patients admitted for special investigation and diagnosis; 353 were general surgical cases, and in addition there were 26 road-accident injuries, 42 gynæcological and 8 obstetric cases, and 32 patients were admitted for dental treatment because they could not be dealt with satisfactorily in the out-patient department.

There were 39 fatal cases during the year, and of these 11 died within 48 hours after admission. Eight deaths occurred as the result of vascular or respiratory diseases, two from meningitis, two from appendicitis, two from accidental injuries and one from the effects of scalding.

There has been an increase in the number of beds, but as these were not available until November, the increase has very little, if any, influence on the total number of admissions. The daily average of beds occupied during the year is 24.7. The number of out-patients has risen by just over 100 to a total of 595, of whom 133 were dental cases.

The work of the X-Ray Department also shews a considerable increase; 217 in-patients were dealt with and 365 out-patients making 582 in all; as compared with 431 last year.

Operations.—Apart from a few cases which were of unusual interest on account of rarity, the list presents very little difference from that of the previous year. The total number of operations shews a slight increase, and there was an increase in the number of appendicitis cases and also in those operated on for severe injuries. Among the more unusual cases dealt with were a very large mesenteric cyst, a multiple retroperitoneal cyst, a minute renal papilloma giving rise to severe hæmorrhage, a ruptured kidney which had evaded diagnosis elsewhere, and a case of acute intestinal obstruction, in a baby, caused by strangulation of an internal hernia. Among the obstetric cases requiring operation were one patient with gross pelvic deformity, one with grave albuminaria, and a case of foetal malposition. Another patient with moderate pelvic contraction was delivered normally.

Anæsthetics.—As pointed out last year the tendency is to use combinations of drugs, gases and anæsthetics rather than chloroform or ether alone, the object being to obtain greater safety and comfort for the patient; with this intention, "pre-medication" is frequently employed, the drugs principally used being morphia with atropine, or nembutal; and for the anæsthesia the use of nitrous oxide and oxygen with the addition of ether is most in favour for major operations.

The Boyle's apparatus purchased 10 years ago is still in use but it is almost worn out and will soon be replaced by a more reliable outfit.
